Investment Philosophy:

Driven by a combination of complex security structures, a high degree of retail investor input, limited institutional involvement and lack of quality research the listed debt hybrid market is inefficient. We exploit these inefficiencies through a combination of strategic security selection and active secondary market trading.

Investment Process:

Our process is designed to structure portfolios of listed debt hybrid securities that consistently display an acceptable risk adjusted return. Our investment process consists of 4 steps or filters.

In summary we;

1. Value each security based on our assessment of the security’s structure after consideration of what we think the issuer is most likely to do at the next reset or roll date
2. Consider the supply and demand factors that are most likely to impact security valuations both now and in the future
3. Ensure that the credit risk of each security is adequately reflected in the price of that security
4. Reduce overall portfolio risk by creating diversified portfolios with correlation benefits.

Risk Management

Risk management is an ongoing process and involves the assessment of both market conditions and security specific events. The major risks are; default risk, security specific risk, liquidity risk and interest rate risk. Diversification is the major risk mitigation tool at the portfolio level. By structuring portfolio with securities that display a low degree of return correlation to one another and by imposing strict holding limits on individual securities we ensure adequate diversification.
